MR. LESLIE BURGIN, Minister of Supply, revealed in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon that 68 firms, in addition to those normally employed in the production of munitions, were now machining and making shells.

Over 700 firms were making shells and their components, and these were being added to every day.

'There were 28 Royal Ordnance Factories, all of which were completely owned by the nation. Six of these had been established since war broke out.

Since the outbreak of war, Mr. Burgin continued, orders for supplies to the value of £70,000,000 had been placed by his Department.

The organisation of the Ministry of :Supply had been expanded, Mr. Burgin concluded, in the light of lessons learned in the Great War.

A Supply Council and a Munitions Council had been established.

NAZIS TO RESPECT NEUTRALITY

London, To-day. The Nazi radio denies that Ger-House of Commons on Wednesday many has any intention of violating Washington, To-day.

THE MEETING OF CONGRESS called by President Roosevelt to consider neutrality recommendetions began yesterday afternoon in what was one of the most momentous sessions in the Capitol's history.

The crowded house greeted the President with tumultous applause.

President Roosevelt said that he had called Congress in order that it might "consider and act on the amendment of certain legislation which, in my best judgment, so alters the historic foreign policy of the United States that it impairs the peaceful relations of the United States with foreign nations.

When war came, the United States Government had to do everything in its power to keep the United States out of the war.

- In the President's opinion they would succeed. "I said last year in January that our neutrality laws might act to the advantage of the aggressor and the instinct of self-preservation should warn. us not to let that happen, any more.

ACT REGRETTED

The president then dealt with the tieviation from the neutrality laws in the Napoleonic wars.

said President Roosevelt. He added: "I regret that Congress passed that Act which was wholly inconsistent American citizens from travelling in with the ancient precepts of the laws of nations—the embargo provisions—

The president said that America because they are, in my opinion, vitalad always done its utmost to avert ly dangerous to American neutrality. security and above all, peace.

KEEP AWAY

"I insist that American citizens and ships keep away from the immediate peril of actual conflict.

"What Inrecommend is to put the country back on the solid footing of real and traditional neutrality.

"I believe that as far as possible American vessels should be restricted from entering the war. zones.

"The Government's proposals are better calculated than any other means to keep us out of war."

FOUR OBJECTIVES

President Roosevelt enumerated four The next deviation came in 1934, objectives; first the restricting of American ships from entering war zones; second, the prevention of belligerent vessels or in danger zones; third, requiring foreign buyers to take transer of title in America for commodities purchased by belligerents (the result of the last two objectives will require all purchases to be made in cash, and cargoes to be carried in purchasers' own ships at purchasers' own risk.

The two other objectives have been amply attained by the existing law, namely the regulating and collection of funds in this country for bellige.ents, and the maintenance of the licensed system covering the import and export of arms, ammunition and implements of war.

THE ROAD TO PEACE

Such arms cannot be carried to belligent countries on American vessels and this provision should not be disturbed.

This programme means that therewill be less likelihood of incidents and controversies which tend to draw the United States into the conflict, as they unhappily did in the last war.

Shanghai, To-day.

THE GENERAL AIR of scepticism among British and other foreign residents concerning the professed Japanese indifferences to the European war as far as it affects the local situation has sharply increased.

Apprehension has been caused by the holding of a large anti-British mass meeting at Pootung yesterday, sponsored by the "Southern District Administration Office" and the Pootung Branch of the Great People Society, under the instructions of the Japanese Special Service Section.

The meeting was held at the Hwai-

The Chinese, people, he said, must not serve the British, and must not buy British goods. There must be no peace until the downfall of the British people. Following the meeting, a protest procession paraded through the streets of Pootung.

The uneasiness, thus increased, is being reflected to some extent on the exchange and stock markets in Shanghai to-day.

NAZIS NOW ADMIT POLES FIGHT ON AT FOUR POINTS

THE NAZI RADIO yesterday admitted that the Polish armies were still resisting in four places.

These are Warsaw; Modlin fortress (north-west of Warsaw); a point south-east of Warsaw and in the Hela Peninsula (in the Baltic).

This admission came only a few hours after the claim by General von Brauchituch, the German commander-in-chief, that the Poles had been exterminated, and all fighting had ceased.

WARSAW SUCCESSES IN SORTIES

Radio Warsaw announced last evening that the defenders of the Polish capital have gained further successes west of Warsaw, where many enemy attacks were repulsed.

Three Polish cavalry brigades have broken through the German lines horth-west of Warsaw and have arrived to strengthen the garrison.

Several air raids took place on the suburbs, in which 70 Nazi planes took part. Seven were brought down.

Hundreds of civilians were killed in yesterday's air raids on Warsaw.

Five Days Before Outbreak Of War Nazi Germany Offered Britain An Alliance!

BACKGROUND OF RECENT HISTORY REVEALED IN REMARKABLE WHITE PAPER

London, To-day.

A WHITE PAPER of 200 pages entitled "Documents Concerning German-Polish Relations and the Outbreak of Hostilities Between Britain and Germany," contains 144 separate documents starting with 1934, when the German-Polish Agreement was the governing factor in German-Polish relations to January 1939, and ending with the Premier's broadcast talk to the German people the night after the outbreak of war.

The documents are grouped under headings which themselves tell much of the story of the past six months.

May—the Anglo-Polish Agreement— Developments in Anglo-German Relations and the British Attitude, to the International Situation April-June the Deterioration of the Local Danzie Situation June 3—July 3—The British attitude July 10-15-The temporary Easing of the Danzig Situation July 19-August 1-The further deterioration of Danzig August 3-16-The Treatment of the German Minority in Poland August 24-27."

ATTEMPTS AT MEDIATION

A section is devoted to attempts at mediation by other states. The longest section comprises 66 documents of which 14 were aiready published in Sentember-The first part of the White Paper deals with the "developments leading immediately to the outbreak of hostilities." While the earlier sections are of great importance, the chief interest will centre on the diplomatic correspondence revealing the background of events during the last nine fateful days of August. The section opens with the now famous letter which the Premier addressed, on behalf of the King, to Herr Hitler on August 22 after the news had been received of the Soviet-Nazi Non-Aggression Pact and in which Mr. Chamberlain again gave a clear statement of British obligations to Poland.

A telegram of August 22 from the British Ambassador in Berlin, pubthe letter.

Sir Neville reported that Hitler was "excitable and uncompromis-Ing."

His language was violent and exaggerated, both as regard England and Poland.

He began by asserting that Polish question would have settled in the most generous but for Britain's unwarranted port.

HITLER RETORT "I drew attention to the inaccuracies of this statement our guarantee having been given on March 31, and the Polish reply on March 26. man nationals generally."

British support of the Czechs and Poles. He asserted the former would be independent to-day if England, had not encouraged them in a policy hostile to Germany. He insinuated the Poles would be to-morrow if Britain ceased to encourage them to-day. He followed this by a tirade against England whose friendship he had sought for 20 years only to see every offer turned down with contempt. The British Press was also vehemently abused. I contested every point and kept calling his statements inaccurate, but the only effect was to launch him point of His Majesty's Government proposal. on some fresh tirade".

SHORT STORY

FOUR YEARS³³

EONIE had been buying a wedding the sun. present, the morning when she first tenth wedding present she had bought he was home on leave before." in the last year or so. There weren't now.

She turned into Camberby's in the High-street when her shopping was over. She usually lunched there when she was down in the town. Its glittering glass and chromium interior struck a lively note, and there were always people there whom she knew. To-day there were Grace Hartley and Virginia Field. They waved to her as she came in, and she went across.

She discovered after a moment's talk Harvey Matherson himself. that Grace Hartley had been after a wedding present that morning too. A present for Aileen . Hilton, just as Leonie's had been. And in a very short while now, she reflected, yet another one would have to be bought for Grace herself. And then one for Virginia.

across the wide room, letting their talk pass unheeded for the moment. It was all so easy for these others. They just went around gaily with the youths who had grown up with them here in Briscombe, and sooner or later they paired off and were married, seemed to be happy enough too.

There were many people in Briscombe who wondered why no wedding present had yet been necessary for Leonie. Leonie, at twenty-four, was as attractive as any of them. But nobody had the slightest inkling of her secret. Not even her family.

She caught a word or two from Virginia. The mention of a name that made her heart suddenly race within her.

"By the way," Virginia was saying, "have you heard about that Matherson man? You know—the one whose people bought the Lodge, over on West Hill. He's due home again, I hear. Next week, or something like that."

"Really?" said Grace. "Yes, I remember him vaguely. Taciturn sort of individual, wasn't he? I think he regarded all of us as a lot of juvenile bores."

Leonie sat motionless. So Harvey Matherson was coming home again! Harvey Matherson, whom she had seen for just a month or so, four years ago, and who had barely seemed to notice her at all. He was coming home again. And nobody knew that for those four whole years Harvey Matherson had been in her thoughts every day and every hour. Nobody knew that she was so hopelessly in love with sir," Harvey told him. him. Not even her own family. Least of all Harvey Matheson himself.

"That doesn't sound so bad." He regarded her thoughtfully a mo-

"It isn't. Not bad at all."

And then their hostess approached them once more to introduce further guests, and they were no longer alone. There were the Colmans, who had apparently not met Matherson before. It was wonderful right up to the day when she went up from Brinscombe to meet him in town. They were due at luncheon, a sort of semibusiness affair which was being given by an association to which his firm belonged. He had gone up by an earlier train to make a call on his tailor, and she was to meet him at the hotel where the luncheon was to be held. He would be able to introduce some of his friends, he said. Some of his colleagues who were also home on leave.

She was early, and sat in the lounge of the hotel to wait. Everything was still wonderful right up to that very moment. Soon she would see Harvey entering the door, walking towards her with his long, easy stride. She hardly noticed the conversation of the two men on the settee at her right. Not until she actually heard one of them mention Harvey's name.

TO-NIGHT'S BLACK-OUT REMINDERS

Hong Kong's most realistic "black-out" test will be carried out, according to plan, this evening, and all are advised to have the necessary preparations completed before sunset.

Particular attention must be paid, the Director of A.R.P. advises, to the complete extinguishing of all unnepessary, lights and the effective screening of others immediately after the "air raid" alarm is sounded.

"Among the very few faults during the last "black out" test, were lights showing through fanlights and in many cases rear lights of motor vehicles were not covered with the regulation blue or black cloth," stated Wing-Commander A. H. S. Steele-Terkins.

VEHICLES ON ROADS The public are also warned that during the "black out" this evening, there will be several A.R.P. exercises and a number of A.R.P. vehicles will be on the road, therefore they are advised, that, if they have to go outdoors, to keep on the footpaths and not to wander on the roads.

The Harbour will be closed to shipping from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

TO-NIGHT'S BLACK-OUT

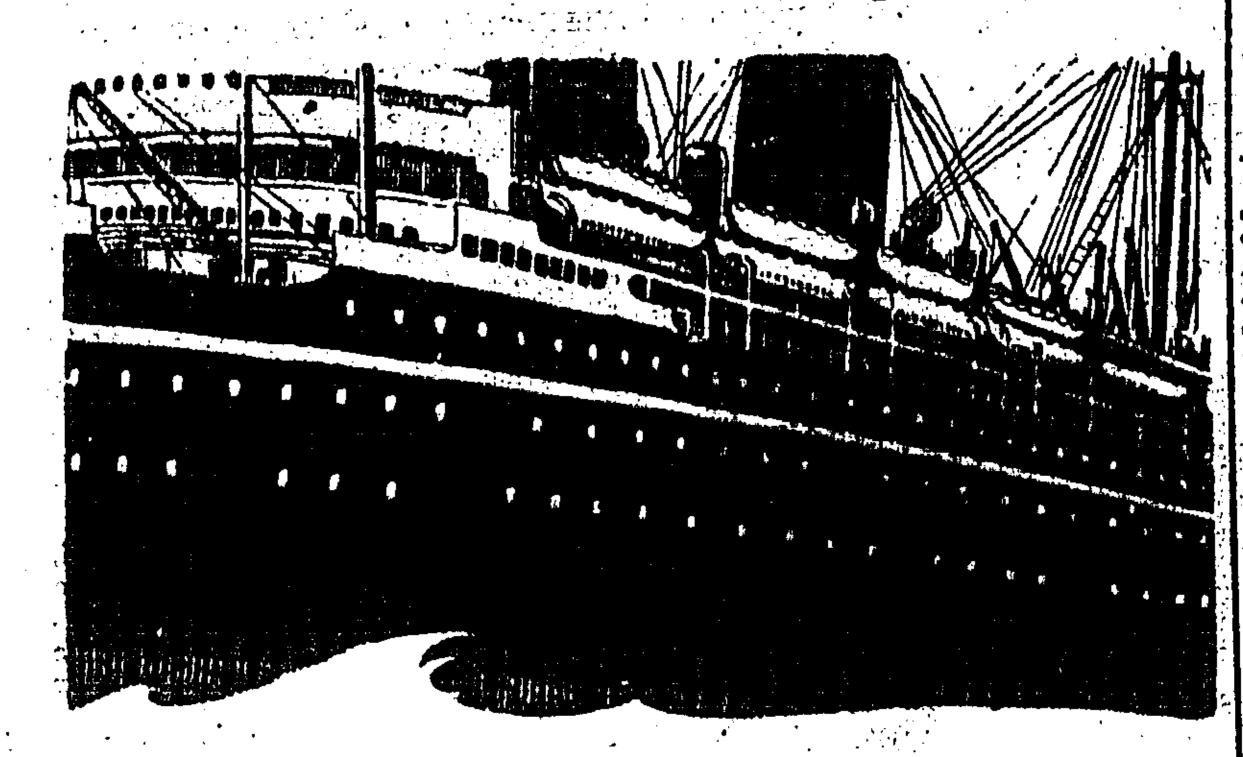

The Director of Alr Raid Precautions announces that, under the powers contained in paragraph 24, Part 5, of Hong Kong Ordinance No. 55 of 1916 (Lighting Control) as published in the Government Gazette of 14th July, 1939, Government Notification No. 565, for the purpose of the blackout exercise, the extinction of Navigation Lights in all ships and watercraft will only extend from 9.15 p.m. to 9.35 p.m. on the 22nd September, 1939; all other lights, however, must remain extinguished until the sounding of the "Raiders Passed". signal. At 9.35 p.m. Navigation Lights may be relit, but all other lights must remain extinguished or obscured until the "Raiders Passed" signal has been sounded.

THE BRITISH WHITE PAPER

Other passages in the records of a long and earnest conversation are as follows; "Hitler replied that he be restrained." would be willing to negotiate if there was a Polish Government, prepared to be reasonable and which really controlled the country. He expatiated on the misdoings of the Poles, referred to his "generous offer" of March last, said it could not be repented, and asserted that nothing else than the return of Danzig and the whole Corridor would satisfy him, together with rectification in Silesia."

ANNIHILATION OF POLAND

"I again said the choice lay with him. He said he offered a corridor over the Corridor in March: and had to honestly tell him that if could offer nothing more than that it would have no hope of acceptance. I begged him very earnestly to reflect before raising his price. He said his original offer had been continuously refused and he would not make it again. observed that it had been made in the form of a public speech and-that therein lay the whole difference."

"He spoke of the annihilation of Poland. I said that that reminded me of a similar talk last year of the annihilation of the Czechs. He retorted that we were incapable of inducing Poland to be reasonable. said it was just because we remembered the experience of Czechoslovakia last year that we hesitated to press Poland too far to-day."

"The only occasion on which Hitler became at all excited was when observed it was not a question of and the Sudeten area and their peace- many peoples." ful re-acquisition by Germany. He also resented my references to the 15th March."

GOERING WARNED

Sir Nevile described to the Foreign Minister, Lord Halifax, the interview he had with Goering in May last and tells how-he warned Goering of the consequences of Hitler yielding to the advice of his "wild men."

Goering immediately changed the subject and complained that his holiday at San Remo had been spoilt owing to the unexpected amount of work thrust upon him. Later Goering said that no power could overcome Germany in Europe and a blockade this time would prove unavailing.

Sir Neville Henderson comments. that Goering used all the language which might have been expected in reply to a statement that Germany was bound to be defeated.

OVERSTATED CASE

He gave me the impression by the busis of a peaceful and freely somewhat overstating his case, of considerably less confidence than he expressed. I said that if war was to be avoided patience was necessary and the wild men of Germany must

> "When the German Ambassador in London complained of the encircling of Germany, Lord Halifax wrote to Sir Nevile saying: "I replied by saying that if anybody was encircling Germany it was herself, by the policy she persisted in pursuing. .

"It seemed to us quite plain that the German Chancellor, had broken the china in Europe and only he could put it together again."

GERMAN REPLY TO ALLIED ULTIMATUM

The German reply to the British ultimatum of September 3 is given in a white paper now published containing the Anglo-German communications before the outbreak of war.

The reply says: "The German : Government and people refuse to receive or accept let alone fulfil the demands in the nature of an ultimatum made by the British Government.

"We shall answer any aggressive action on the part of England with weapons and in the same form."

TWENTY MINUTES AFTER The German memorandum was handed to Sir Nevile Chamberlain at 11.20 a.m. on September 3, 20 minutes -after the expiry of the time-limit.

The German Note stated that the British Government had rejected the proposal of Signor Mussolini which might still have been able to save

The British Government therefore Danzig and the Corridor but his de- bear responsibility for all the unhaptermination to use force. This evoked piness and misery which has now a tirade about the Rhineland, Austria overtaken and is about to overtake

Among the many remarkable disclosures are an interview that in with Sir Nevile Henderson on August 28, Hitler asked whether England would be willing to accept an alliance with Germany.

At an earlier interview Hitler told Sir Nevile that it was England who had forced him into an agreement with Russia.

NOT ENTHUSIASTIC Sir Nevile, in a telegram to Lord Halifax, added: "He did not seem enthusiastic over it but added that once he had made the agreement it would be for a long period." Sir Nevile, commenting on the pact, told Lord Hallfax: "I shall be surprised is it is not supple. monted later by something more than more non-aggression."

When Sir Nevile Henderson discussed the outcome of an Anglo-German war with Goering, the latter said that the history of Germany was one of ups and downs and this is one of the "up" periods. APING HITLER AT HIS WORST

Telling of the interview with von Ribbentrop on August 30, Sir Nevile wrote: "Von Ribbentrop's whole demeanour during an unpleasant interview was aping Hitler at his worst." -Reuter and British Wireless.

A bee-sting caused two deaths in England the other day. The woman driver of a car travelling mear the Worthing end of the Findom-by-pass, Sussex, was stung. The car mounted the grass verge by the road-side, struck two women, turned a double somersault, and came to standstill in an adjoining-field-

. The two women killed were Miss Faith Whitworth, 55, and Mrs. Annie Turnock, 78, visitors from London.

NAZIS ON SAAR FRONT

Paris, To-day.

THE LATEST GERMAN attacks on the western front are described here as "shoulder blows." They are carried out by one or two companies at a time, the aim being to keep the French occupied while more German reserves movè up.

THREAT TO SAARBRUECKEN London, To-day.

A report from Basle (Switzerland) says that the German artillery on the western front continued firing all night.

East and west of Saarbruccken, the French repulsed a number of enemy attacks.

The French are in a position to seriously threaten Saarbruecken from two sides.-Reuter.

"QUIET ON WHOLE" A communique states: "The day was quiet on the whole. Enemy artillery was active south of Saarbrucken. Aerial reconnaissance was carried out despite bad weather and enemy fire."-Reuter.

INSTRUMENT LEFT IN BODY

A surgical instrument several inches long, known as a depressor, which was shown to the jury at a Weston-super-Mare inquest, was stated to have been found in the body of Miss Harriett Helena Walker, 66, of Belgrave-road, when she was operated upon at Weston-super-Mare Hospital last Wednesday. The woman had undergone an operation at St. Mary's private hospital, Bristol, in June.

The jury returned a verdict that death was due to, shock following a severe operation necessitated by the presence of an instrument.

The jury added a rider that they considered that there had been negligence, not amounting to criminal negligence, on the part of those in charge of St. Mary's Hospital, Bristol, there apparently being not strick supervision of surgical instruments.

Dr. D. O. Clark said that the operation at Bristol was performed by Prof. Drew Smythe, professor of gynnecology of Bristol University.

Miss Julia Craughwell, a nurse at St. Mary'e Hospital, said she was in charge of the operating theatre, and another nurse was present. She could: not remember which of them counted the surgical instruments before and after the operation.

Mr. Richard Warren, hon. surgeon at Weston-super-Mare Hospital, said it. might be possible for the instrument to slip in.

For Busy People

Working at high pressure, with little time to spare, is conducive to neglect of an important daily habit, resulting in liverishness, loss of appetite, bil-iousness. To relieve internal congestion and restore regularity, a dose of Pinkettes, which act in a gentle na-tural manner, is usually all that is required.

Pinkettes dispel constipation, aid digestion, relieve flatulence, prevent billiousness, liverishness and sick headach, restore vitality, sweeten the breath, clear the skin of pimples and other blemishes, and bring to the eyes the glow of health. Obtainable at all chemists, Pinkettes are the perfect laxative aid for men and women.

H.K. Electric Beat K.C.C. To Cause Major 3rd. Div. Upset I.R.C. Secure Points At Expense Of Depleted C.C.C.

A programme of six matches was played in the Lawn Bowls League on Saturday, three games taking place in the First Division and a similar number in the Third.

In each division a surprise occurred, Indians, on their own green, were able to beat a depleted Craigengower team in First Division and Hong Kong Electric caused one of the major upsets of the year by overcoming Kowloon Cricket Club. to make the Third Division title almost a certainty for Club de Recreio.

chance of being runners-up in the Premier League, they are still vulnerable. Should they lose both their remaining games—Kowloon Bowling Green Club and Club de Recreio "B", which I consider unlikely, they could still be overtaken by either Kowloon Cricket Club or Kowloon Bowling Green Club. The latter two meet at Austin Road on Saturday week.

Club de Recreio "B," whose play certainly merits a better position than a struggle to avoid relegation, very nearly beat Civil Servants, who finished strongly to win by only seven shots, while the Champions beat the Kowloon Cricketers in spite of being slightly down on two rinks.

In the Third Division, the Hong Kong Electric Club's victory was truly remarkable as the team did not appear to be their strongest and it will be remembered that the club lost to the Prison Officers by a record score the previous Saturday.

Bob Meadows looked as if he was going to beat Stuart Deacon as he led by eight shots after six ends but then the home team put on 21 shots to a. bare 2 in the following eleven heads and ran out winners with nine to spare.

BROWN'S PRETTY FOUR In a low scoring game the Hong Kong Football Club beat Craigengower by over a dozen, all rinks being up, with Pegg having the biggest win.

BY BEST BALL

Whether you use the "hitting" or "sweeping" method of putting you will have no trouble finding plenty of first flight players, past and present, as fitting examples of your style. The "hitting" method is one patterned after the name. Itself, the player spanks the ball rather hard to the back of the Oftentimes it may bound out again, or up and back. However it is a decisive effort, gengrally by a determined golfer and it has no truck with the usual roll. and cut of the grass, its momentum allowing it to ignore these britating conditions and place it in the hole in the shortest possible time by the straightest path.

Golfers, who use this method such as Johnny Farrell, realize that the path of the ball must be accurate for it is travelling at such speed that if it fails to land in the cup, it may run well past the hole and leaving a second putt, which is by no means assured on the way back. The "awreping" blow on the other hand, donts, into the ball and gives is just enough momentum to die at the bole. This not only insures it from going too far but should the ball stop anywhere slong the edge of the cup it may topple in. Bobby Jones employed. this style.

HOW THE RACING INDUSTRY. WILL BE AFFECTED

LONDON, SEPTEMBER 5. — One of the happiest men in England is a well-known jockey who, unfortunately, prefers to remain annoymous.

"How am I affected by the war?" he says, "As soon as I knew that war had been declared, I sat down to have my first square meal for weeks." I wonder what he'll say when the "All Right" is signalled!

The general position as regards racing establishments is that trainers are keeping their horses for the time being, pending instructions from owners. Racehorses have no value in war time, but owners will naturally be reluctant to part with good horses in a hurry. Blue Peter, for example. He will be wanted, if not for racing, for stud purposes later.

the continuance of the breed.

Stories about dispersing horses (by which I. mean horses in training, brood mares, stallions, yearlings and foals) are all unfounded.

Turf Headquarters, for example, not only has numerous training establishments, but is surrounded by stud farms. The occupants of the stables and of the farms, according to present arrangements, will stay where they are. Why not?

THE SMALL OWNER

The people who will be most hit by war conditions will be the trainers; whose livelihood for the moment comes to an end. The head of one of the biggest stables at Turf Headquarters has just told me some of his provisional arrangements. They are mainly that the good horses will be kept, but that owners of bad ones will be asked either for permission for the horses to be turned out or else to take them away.

Small owners will undoubtedly be las free funds permit. small owner finds racing expensive end and, with it, that of their staffs. his liabilities.

Turning for a moment to other matters. What will happen to racing's personnel? This, again, is a question which cannot be decided 100 to 1 against Hitler!" right away. Stablemen are of different ages. The young men will go pick up our muskets. The Next Best and no doubt the older men will, as is to carry on with our jobs: far as possible, be employed in the stables and on the farms.

JOCKEYS AS AIRMEN

Jockeys will mostly find their way, either into mechanised units or into the R.A.F. There are several of the licences and those who do not fly should soon make good airmen. They One felt sorry for the Yacht Club are fit, they have good nerves and,

I have been trying unsuccessfully to get on to Steve Donoghue to inquire if the French colt, Pharis II., has been sent to his place or not. Anyway, I suppose Pharis will have to stay in this country for the time being. He will no doubt settle down, giving French lessons to some of

AUSTRIAN PILOTS FORBIDDEN TO FLY

London, To-day. The German freedom station, the anti-Nazi radio which is broadcasting in spite of the Gestapo from somewhere in Germany, yesterday stated that all Austrian air force pilots had been forbid- is held. den to fly their planes and had been put on ground natural wish to give time and help is duties.

All over Germany, said the broadcast, the anti-Nazi organisation had set up a widespread net of illegal groups.

The broadcast advised listeners to try and get in touch with these groups. -Reuter.

NEW MINISTERS

General Argeseanu has been appointed Premier to succeed Calinescu.

General Marinescu has taken over the Home Office, and General Ilcus, the Mayor of Bucharest, has assumed | tion of Russian-occupied Poland. the portfolio of Defence Minister.

All these posts were, until his death, held by M. Calinescu.—Our Own Correspondent.

LOCAL WAR EFFORT

The British Red Cross Society and St. John's War Organisation recently inaugurated by His Excollency the Governor at a public meeting held at Government House, has now completed preliminary work and many activities are already in progress.

A good start has already been made in the knitting section. On Monday mornings from 9.30 a.m., at the Helena May Institute, all who can knit are welcomed and given wool to make socks and other garments. At the same place on Wednesday mornings, bandage making and rolling meeting

Entertainments are in process of being arranged: in short, everyone's being directed into the most useful channels. Last, but by no means least, the subscription lists are now open. Already generous donations have been received and it is hoped that many names will appear in the list of subscribers, which will be published weekly. All subscriptions should be sent to the Hon. Treasurer, (Mr. F. B. Winter), British War Organisation Fund, c/o Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank.

IN POLAND

Bucharest, To-day. Reports from Poland state that tens of thousands of copies of the Soviet newspaper "Pravda" ("Truth") are being distributed among the popula-

Groups of the best actors in the Soviet are being sent to the occupied areas to give propaganda shows and concerts. — Reuter.

FOR ALL OPTICAL WORK

Standards which you expect in the biggest cities in the world can be met at Chungking, To-day. Chinese circles here are of opinion that Soviet occupation of Polish territory does not mean Soviet military assistance to Germany against Britain and France, and suggest that Britain and France are well aware of that. It is not expected that there will be any reduction of Soviet assistance to China and the Mongolia agreement is considered to be no more important than the Changkufeng settlement.—Our Own Corres> pondent.

Six more typhoid cases were reported to the Medical Department yesterday. There was only one cholera case, one diphtheria, one meningitis, and 37 tuberculosis.

Macao, To-day. Japanese troops landed yesterday near Tsinshan, about five miles north-west of the Macao-Chungshan border. Skirmishes occurred and gunfire was audible along the border.

The troops, numbering between 300 and 500, are reported to be striking north-east towards the Macao-Shek-ki highway.

Meanwhile sharp fighting has again broken out near Cheungkapin and at Taiwan. Japanese planes dropped bombs on Shekki yesterday afternoon.

This morning they were active again, but details are lacking.— Our Own Correspondent.
